BACK GROUND

Wonky Sheep Travel and Events launched in 2013.

It was born out of frustration at paying for overpriced ready made stag packages which we knew could be done for the same standard at a lower cost without going down the cheap route.

We targeted people who didn't have time to organise, didn't know where to start, didn't have the time or simply couldn't be bothered and we helped to sort their bespoke event whether it be in the UK or abroad.

It was about being bespoke because it was the traveller's event so we organise what they want as opposed to what we'd try to sell them. We didn't offer any ready-made packages.

When we started out, all the other stag and hen companies were only offering ready-made packages. Now they all offer bespoke.

Since then, we added activity weekends, city breaks, holidays and event planning which in turn led to sports trips which originally were amateur sports clubs' pre-season and end-of-season tours.

That has grown to supporter travel for football and rugby, while we also offer travel arrangements for professional sports teams and academies, assisting with UK and European travel for competitive matches.

Business travel is also a key feature of our offerings ranging from SMEs to well-known organisations.

BUSINESS TRAVEL

Taking the stress and hassle away

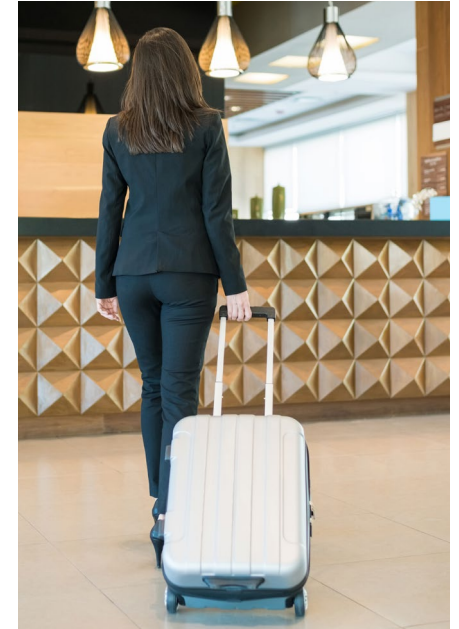

Booking hotels and arranging travel can be time-consuming and a hassle which is why we're here to do it for you.

Regardless of business status and size, the principle and key parts of organising corporate travel are the same.

While each business may have their own individual requirements, requests and budgets, they expect everything to run smoothly and receive an excellent service. So do we.

That's why whoever we arrange travel for, it's important to learn at the outset what the exact requirements are for each business, what their expectations are and how they want to work with us.

Being organised is crucial and understanding the needs has to be the starting point.

You would have one point of contact to work with (a real person, not a chatbot) for pre-planning and when the travel is taking place to ensure consistency as well as to build up a healthy working relationship.

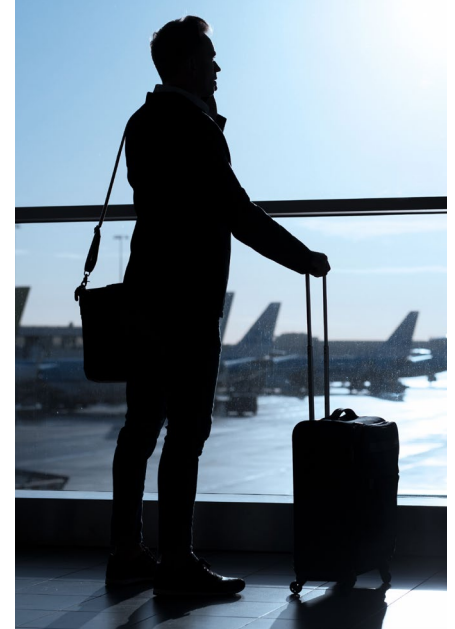

We can also help you to monitor your spend and keep to budgets.

We regard you as a business partner and not a client.

Travel arrangements are available in the UK and overseas for:

- Individuals or groups who need to travel away on business
- Hotel-only stays
- Away days, activities and team building events or trips
- Individuals or groups who want social travel

BUSINESS TRAVEL

What you can book through us

Accommodation

All aspects of the booking process:

- Sourcing, quoting and paying for hotels
- Rooming lists
- Meeting space

Some businesses want budget options and others require 4* and 5* hotels and we can accommodate both.

We work with most of the major brands including but not limited to EasyHotel, Ibis, Premier Inn, Hilton, Radisson, Marriott, Accor, IHG, and Hyatt, but also work with some independents.

Ground transportation

This includes airport transfers or general travel within a city if you're just needing to get from A to B.

Air travel

We can arrange both scheduled and charter flights:

- Sourcing, quoting and paying for flights
- Passenger lists
- Extra baggage
- Meal requirements

While private charters are more expensive, they are a far more convenient way of flying for a number of reasons including:

- Have the plane to yourselves
- Fly when and from where you want
- In most cases you can fly direct
- More flexibility on passenger lists, baggage and catering
- Potential to have private terminals

BUSINESS EVENTS

Group travel, conferences and event support

If you're attending a conference or a trade event for example, we can support with the travel arrangements, and similarly, if you're the host we can help in the following two ways.

Accommodating delegates

One aspect which many organisers leave out is accommodation for the hundreds (or thousands depending on the size of the event) of delegates due to attend an event.

The focus is often on ensuring delegates book their place at the event but the rest is often left to them to sort out themselves, including where to stay.

We can help give you more of a complete offering by looking after the accommodation side of things which can extend from hotel rooms to conference/meeting rooms and dinners.

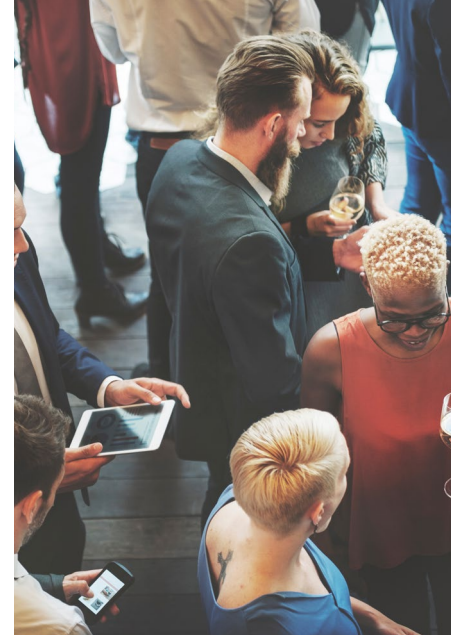

Event support

Hosting an event is a big responsibility and the key is to ensure everything runs smoothly. This is where we come in.

We're not there to run your event, we're here to offer back-up support which aims to take the pressure off organisers by allowing you to focus on the main elements of your event while we work quietly in the background ensuring everything else is going to plan.

This could include dealing with something which unexpectedly crops up, so you don't have to worry about it, or spot a potential issue which can be nipped in the bud before it becomes a problem.

It's about knowing we're there if we're needed and we'll also offer advice when appropriate.
